Friday, March 7. 1707.

From the Paris Gazette, dated March 5.
Madrid, February 15.

TH E 12th of this Month, the Queen went to the Church of our Lady of Atocha, to return Thanks to God for her being great with Child. Rails were made 2500 Foot in Length and 7 Foot high, to keep off the Crowd, and the Ground within the Rails was cover'd with Sand. 1000 Men were drawn up in two Ranks, and their Officers were at their Head, each in his Rank: The Streets, Windows, and Balconies were adorn'd as on a Publick Festival. In several Places the Pictures of the King and Queen were put up under Magnificent Canopies, with Devices, Inscriptions, and Verses. The King went first to the Church, in his Coach, attended by his Officers and some Grandees. The Queen came after, in a Chair, preceded by the Officers of her Stables on Foot; and by the Grandees and other Officers of her Household: By the Sides of the Queen's Chair were the Conde de St. Itevan, her Mayordomo-Mayor, and the Marquis de Castellrodrigo her Master of the Horse. After her came the Princess Ursini in a Chair; and the Procession was clos'd by the Horse and Foot that were on the Guard. When their Majesties were arriv'd at the Monastery, the Te Deum was sung by the King's Musick, with great Solemnity. Their Majesties return'd in the same Manner, and had the Acclamations of a vast Number of People. In the Evening there were Matquerades, Morisco-Dances, and other Diversions prepar'd by the City Companies and Corporations. The Rebels of Arragon having form'd a Body of Troops, besieg'd Berdun lately; but the Militia of the neighbouring Valleys, supported by a Detachment of Horse, some Companies of French Foot, and Part of the Regiment of Don Felix de Marimont, march'd to them, and forc'd them to retire with Loss. Some Days ago we receiv'd Advice, that 4 Men who were going with Letters to the Enemy, to acquaint them by what Means they might surprize Cartagena, were taken in a Bark and put to Death. The Marquis de Tenebron, Inspector of the Foot, is dead at Murcia. The Cutate of Villanueva de la Jara has refus'd the Bishoprick of Badajoz.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated March 11.

Madrid, Feb. 15. The 13th Instant the Duke of Berwick arriv'd here, accompanied by Don Miguel Pons: He has only taken a View of the Frontiers of Arragon, on the Side of Molina and Medina-Celi; but has not been towards the Kingdom of Valencia, as was said formerly: But 'tis said the Court have order'd him to be gone thither forthwith, in order to put all the Places on that side into a good Condition of Defence, and to dispose the Troops in such a Manner, that they may be ready to joyn at a short Warning, to make Head against the Enemy, who threaten to undertake some Enterprize since the Arrival of the Confederate Fleet. Tho' the King's Field-Equipage be ready, 'tis believ'd he will not go to the Army before he has Advice of the March of the French Troops from Roussillon into Catalonia, and of those of Navarre into Arragon: In the mean Time all the Officers that are in this City, are order'd to repair forthwith to the Frontiers of Valencia. The Irish Regiment of Collonel Mahoni, which was to go to Cadix, has receiv'd a Counter-Order, and is to serve under the Duke of Berwick. 4 Regiments of Foot and 2 of Horse have receiv'd Order to march to Arragon, where King Charles's Adherents increase daily.

Madrid, Feb. 24. The Confederate Fleet arriv'd the 6th Instant at Alicant, and the 9th began to land the Forces; a Detachment of which the Enemy have since sent to Elche, a large open Town, to relieve the Troops that were there: They extend their Quarters into the neighbouring Places, and give out they will speedily take the Field. The Duke of Berwick is gone from hence for Albarette on the Frontier of Valencia, where is the Head-Quarter, in order to draw the Army together as soon as possible, to prevent the Designs of the Enemy. An Officer sent by Prince Hieracles de Tilly, Viceroy of Arragon, arriv'd at Court the 20th Instant, to desire a Reinforcement of Troops: Whereupon the King has order'd some Battallions to be sent to him. The Marquis of Jamaica, Son of the Duke de Veraguas, is appointed Viceroy of Sardinia, in the Room of the Marquis de Valera, who has desir'd to be recall'd.

Hague, March 4. The Courier that was sent to the Landgrave of Heile Cassel, returning hither the 1st Instant, long Conferences were held the 2d and 3d between the States Deputies and the Ministers of England and Heile-Cassel. The Difficulties made by that Prince to let his Troops remain in Italy, are acknowledg'd not to be unreasonable; because the Articles of the Treaty made with him for them have not been fully satisfied; but the Potentates concern'd are intirely dispos'd to fulfill those Articles. One Difficulty urg'd by the said Prince, is, that his Troops will not find it very easy to get Subsistence in Italy, even for ready Money, Bread and Forrage are so scarce there: And therefore he demands, that the future Payments to those Troops be made regularly; that they may the more commodiously and orderly subsist themselves. Last Night the Courier was sent back to Cassel, and 'tis not doubted this Affair will soon be adjusted, to the intire Satisfaction of both Parties: The Minister of Savoy is not wanting to use his best Endeavours to forward it. That Minister insists earnestly here, that it is highly reasonable the Duke his Master should be forthwith put into Possession of what was promis'd him by the Treaty: Urging that in reality the Cession of some Tracts of Country in the Milaneze to him, is not a Favour, but rather a Purchase; seeing his Royal Highness has in Consideration thereof remitted great Sums that were due to him from the Crown of Spain, as well for the Dowry of his Grandmother, as for other just Debts; without reckoning the Sums due to him from the Imperial Court: And that as for the Montferrat, it is well known his Royal Highness's Pretensions to it are not of a fresh Date. The Danish Envoy declares there are no Preparations of War made in Denmark, and that the Rumours of such Preparations are groundless and spread abroad designedly by the Court of Holstein; while the Administrator of Gottorp has taken upon him contrary to all Justice to suspend the Canons of Lubeck that voted for Prince Charles of Denmark. 'Tis advis'd from Paris, that the Duke of Mantua has sent Order to his Minister in France, to act in Concert with the Minister of Lorrain, in order to traverse the Cession of the Montferrat to the Duke of Savoy.

Hague, March 8. Nothing is done yet in the Affair of the Loan desir'd by the Deputies of the States of Saxony, tho' they have propos'd a Security for the Payment of the Interest and Principal, that is not liable to Exception. But the Guaranty which the States are to give, to warrant the Repayment to those Persons who shall advance the Sum desir'd, cannot be settled under some Time, because it must be debated by the States of each of the Seven Provinces. We shall soon be able to guess whether this Loan will be granted or not; for the States of Holland are to assemble next Week: And theirs being the richest Province and which will contribute most to the said Loan, their Guaranty or Refusal will be the Foundation of the Deliberations of the other Provinces. One Argument that will go a great Way to dispose the Provinces to consent to the said Guaranty, is this Consideration, that it will be taking away from the Swedes a Pretence to continue in the Electorate of Saxony. The Affair of taking the 10000 Saxons into the Service of England and Holland is still depending: King Augustus on his Part demands, that those Troops shall not serve in Italy, Hungary, or Spain: And some Difficulty is made here in this Business, on a Suspicion that the Cavalry of those Saxon Troops cannot be in a good Condition, because the Swedes have taken up the best Horses. The Minister of the States residing at Stockholm has given an Account by a Letter dated the 28th past, that after all the most diligent Inquiry he could possibly make, he was thoroughly satisfied his Swedish Majesty has not enter'd nor designs to enter into the least Engagement with the Court of France contrary to the Interests of the common Cause. This is conformable to the best Advices from other Parts; which agree that the King of Sweden is wholly bent upon prosecuting the War against the Muscovites with the utmost Vigour: And the States have receiv'd Advice from their Minister in Saxony, that the Emperor's Minister having offer'd the King of Sweden his Imperial Majesty's Mediation of Peace with the Czar, his Swedish Majesty return'd him an Answer by Count Piper, that he was determin'd to make Peace with the Muscovites in the same arbitrary Manner he had done with King Augustus. The same thing is advis'd from the Court of Berlin. Yesterday the Prussian Minister exchange'd with Mr. Stepney the Ratification of the Treaty for the 8000 Prussians that are in Italy: And 'tis advis'd from Berlin that his Prussian Majesty has order'd the 3500 Men that are to recruit those Forces to begin their March, having receiv'd Advice from Vienna that the Emperor had at length given Direction for the Payment of Arrears due to his said Majesty Count Tilli having of late solicited the States to confer upon him the Government of Maestricht, of which General Dopf is Commandant, and the States not complying with his Request, he has presented a Memorial to them in which he says that by their refusing him that Government, they seem not to be well satisfied with his Services: They have return'd him an Answer by a Resolution, which imports that they are perfectly well satisfied with the Services he has done them.

Hague, March 11. The Prussian Minister was Yesterday and the Day before in Conference with the Deputies of the States, touching the Affair of the Barony of Turnhout, and gave them a Memorial on that Subject. The States of the Province of Holland persisting in the allowing their Subjects to import Brandy from France, and the States of Zealand continuing obstinate to the contrary, 'tis thought that when the former are assembled they will take that Matter into mature Consideration. Those of Zealand appear dispos'd to be compliant for the future, provided they may hear no more of what is pass'd, and that the Prizes taken by their Privateers be not call'd in Question. And the Merchants concern'd in the Cargoes of those Prizes, seeming likewise dispos'd to set down quietly by their former Losses provided they may be at Liberty to go on with their Commerce for the future; 'tis hop'd an End will be put to this troublesome Affair. M. de Vribergue is nominated by the Province of Zealand to be their Field-Deputy the ensuing Campaign: He has desir'd that his Nomination may be confirm'd by the States General: Whereupon it has been signify'd to him, that he will do well to wait to see what the other Provinces will do, that all the Field-Deputies may be confirm'd together. The Design of this Delay is, that the Province of Over-Issel may be brought to agree to a Regulation which was approv'd by the rest of the Provinces last Year; namely, that to save the Treasure of the States, there should be but 4 Deputies with the Army, to each of whom 75 Florins a Day is allow'd: That of those 4 Holland should always nominate one, and that the other Provinces should roll, (or nominate alternatively,) that is to say Gelderland with Friseland, Zealand with Utrecht, and Over-Issel with Groenigen. For notwithstanding that Regulation, Over-Issel nominated a Deputy last Year, tho' it was not its Turn. Monsieur d'Auverquerque arriv'd here this evening. P. S. The Courier that was sent to Cassel, is return'd, with the Landgrave's full Consent to let all his Troops continue in Italy.
